PRESS RELEASE

HONOLULU–On January 30, 2013, the Supreme Court of Hawai'i imposed a PUBLIC CENSURE upon Honolulu attorney CRAIG K. FURUSHO. The Public Censure is based upon Mr. Furusho's failure to timely file required documents in probate court, failure to follow court rules and orders regarding those submissions, and failure to reasonably communicate with the client in the matter, resulting in a four-year delay in the resolution of a guardianship and financial injury to the client. In a second matter, Mr. Furusho failed to keep his clients apprised of the status of a lawsuit and upon its dismissal failed to file the required documents at the court causing injury to the client and also failed to provide an accounting to the client in a timely manner.

While the Public Censure does not prevent Mr. Furusho from practicing law in Hawai'i, it may be considered in any future disciplinary proceedings.

Mr. Furusho, 61, was admitted to the Hawai'i bar in 1977, and is a graduate of the University of Denver.

[A copy of the Court's Order of Public Censure of Mr. Furusho is available upon request.]
